Idioms

An idiom is an expression that says something in an interesting way. The meaning cannot be worked out from the individual words and so an idiom cannot usually be translated into another language. Imagine what 'It's raining cats and dogs' would sound like in another language! Give the meanings of these idioms.

She wraps her parents around her little finger.

That really takes the biscuit.

I'm back to square one.

Don't beat about the bush.

He's always blowing his own trumpet.

Mnemonics

A mnemonic is a useful way to remember something. It can be a rhyme - such as 'Thirty days hath September...' - that helps us to remember the number of days in each month. It can be a phrase, no matter how silly, that helps us to remember a tricky spelling - such as 'Big Elephants Can Always Understand Small Elephants'. Think of some mnemonics for these words from this book.

interrupt

assassinate

demeanour

courteous

disappear
